

Spotlight on the Migrant Out-of-School Youth/Health initiative

The Washington State Office of Superintendent of Public Instruction, Title I Migrant Education Program, in partnership with schools, communities and families, supports the unique educational and health needs of migrant students by enhancing their opportunities for personal success and advocating for quality services that promote responsible and productive individuals.

The Migrant Out-of-School Youth (OSY) / Health Coordinator initiative was designed with the intent to help migratory students and migrant Out-of-School Youth (OSY):

1. Overcome health-related problems that inhibit their ability to succeed in school or in other educational programs.
2. Identify regional resources and services designed to support the health and educational needs of OSY and Migrant school aged students.
3. Address the specific health needs that affect a child's ability to participate effectively in those learning activities.
4. Gain access to academic services that support the completion of a high school diploma (or equivalent) and/or post-secondary educational services.

The NCESD is dedicated to supporting schools and communities in providing quality services for migrant students and their families. Our Migrant Consultants are available to provide in-district support in program planning and review, which includes in-depth data analysis based on student achievement. In addition, the Migrant Department provides a yearlong calendar of professional development opportunities that support staff in staying current on Migrant State requirements as well as academic strategies and techniques that supports the emotional academic growth of Migrant students.

Meet Harlan Warner, Chair of the NCESD Board

Harlan has served as an NCESD Board member for 28 years. He decided to run for election in 1990 after working with the ESD to develop an electrical safety program for elementary schools.

The most enjoyable part of service for Harlan is the Board meetings where he has the chance to learn about all the changes occurring in education and discuss the opportunities for the ESD to help schools operate more efficiently.

Harlan retired from the Okanogan County PUD in 2004 with 38 years of service as an engineer and manager. In his spare time, Harlan volunteers with the Okanogan Kiwanis, Okanogan Airport Association, and enjoys time with his family.
